I Safely

'I safely' aims to raise awareness of issues such as Internet grooming, cyber bullying, identity theft and online fraud. It strives to empower parents, carers and professionals to actively help children use the Internet safely.

Presentations, workshops and demonstrations include:

- * The difficulties teenagers face in today's society.
- * What young people know about the internet.
- * Cyber-bullying, social networking and grooming.
- * Related safeguarding issues, e.g. substance mis-use.
- * Checkstick software demonstration.
- * Managing the power of the media.

Speakers include Harry Stephenson and Brian Dunn (Senior Investigating Officers), Charlie Westbury (Press officer in the Ashleigh Hall case) and other experts in the field.
